

TAKE YOUR GROUP TO THE NEXT LEVEL!

This fall 350.org is launching a year-long capacity-building program for local groups. Through training, individualized coaching, and relationship building between local leaders, we aim to develop and share the skills and resources most needed by 350.org affiliated local groups.

From September 2018 – September 2019 we will cover topics such as:

- Visionary & Strategic Leadership
- Strong Organizational Structures & Campaigns
- Practices of Equity & Justice
- Responsible Stewardship of Finances & Resources

Participants will join monthly online sessions and attend an in person retreat at the historic Highlander Center. Work in between sessions will relate to groups' ongoing campaigns.

350.org will cover all costs of the program for leaders accepted into the cohort.

WHO WE'RE LOOKING FOR

We seek ~10 local 350 groups in the United States that are serious about growing their capacity, and which have at least 2 leaders willing to make a year-long commitment. If you have been asking questions like these, the cohort may be for you:

- How do we plan bold, strategic campaigns for climate justice?
- How can we recruit and retain a diverse group of volunteers and leaders?
- How can we connect with peers, find mentors, and share what we have learned?
- How can we strengthen our core leadership team and structure?
- How do we build lasting coalitions with allied groups?
- How do we care for ourselves and each other in these difficult times?

We regret that groups with budgets over $100,000 (and their nodes) are not eligible.

HOW TO APPLY

If you think your group may be interested, we'd love to talk with you! Please contact us at by June 15, 2018 at LeadershipCohort@350.org to express interest in the cohort.
